GUEST SPEAKERS

Phillip Edwards - Strategy and Implementation Manager, Institute for Local Governance

Phillip has a wide range of experience as a researcher, author and manager in a public sector environment and has worked at the ILG for the last three years. His main role is to build links between the academic and practitioner communities in the region but has also undertaken substantial research into the implications of welfare reform. Before moving to the ILG, he was Head of Analysis and Performance at the Government Office and previously held posts as Head of Data Services at the Local Government Data Unit in Wales, Head of Social Policy Management at the Improvement and Development Agency and was a Principal Researcher at the London Research Centre.

He undertook a case study on the impact of welfare reform in Stockton as part of the ILG's research programme before project managing and contributing to a major regional analysis of the reforms. He has also published numerous reports in relation to social welfare and deprivation. Most notably, he was the editor and co-author of 'The Capital Divided', a comprehensive and influential review of social exclusion in London.

Phillip was a lead national negotiator for local authorities in the release of small area data from the Department for Work and Pensions and a member of the Social Exclusion Unit's Policy Action Team 18 on Better Information. In the North East, he is a founder board member of the regional observatory (North East Regional Information Partnership) and, on its demise, helped create and support the North East Research and Information Network. He is a founder member of both the North East Child Poverty Commission and the Child Poverty Policy Network.

Suzanne Moffat – Senior Lecturer, Institute of Health & Society at Newcastle University

Suzanne trained as a speech and language therapist, working in Newcastle upon Tyne, London and Mumbai before embarking on a post-doctoral research career in 1990. Until 2000, she worked on environmental epidemiology studies investigating the health of communities living near industry. Since 2000, she has undertaken a number of studies which have focused on health, welfare and well-being among older people. Her current and long-term interests are in the health and well-being of older people, the impact of changes to the welfare state on older people, tackling health and social inequalities and applying research to policy and practice. The Do-Well study is a randomised controlled trial, economic and qualitative process evaluations of domiciliary welfare rights advice for socio-economically disadvantaged older people recruited via primary health care.

WORKSHOP OPTIONS

Each workshop lasts an hour and runs twice (once at noon and again at 2.15pm). Please choose two from the following options.

1. Welfare Advice Networks – Marie Kerr, Stockton Advice & Information Service

With the ever decreasing funds available for advice provision this workshop will look at how organisations can work together through joint working & referrals processes. Marie has been working on developing the Stockton Welfare Advice Network and will share her experiences at the workshop looking at the advantages of joint working as well as the pitfalls involved in developing partnership working.

2. PIP 1 Year On – Julie Henry and Kathryn Wright, Durham Welfare Rights

Julie has taken a lead role in monitoring the evolution of PIP since it was introduced in the North East in April 2013. Julie will share her findings with the workshop and explore ways in which we can assist claimants in the future.

3. ESA Substantial Risk - Regulation 29(2)(b) and Regulation 35(2)(b) - The Case Law View – Marc Perlic, Wolverhampton Council

An essential workshop for anybody working with ESA claimants. As Tribunals struggle to deal with the ever changing case law around 'substantial risk' this workshop will clarify the current position and identify ways in which advisers can argue their clients' case with decision makers and Tribunals.

4. Discretionary Welfare UK – Terry Patterson, Manchester City Council

As welfare reform bites this workshop looks at how reduced benefits and diminishing discretionary schemes are affecting your local residents, clients and services. It will provide an overview of changes and a chance to look at what is really happening on the ground.

To assist with the workshop Terry would like to invite any information small or large on discretionary welfare UK and what it means, etc - ahead of the meeting, also to seek to build up a potential position statement for NAWRA for times ahead. Please e-mail Terry on terry.patterson@manchester.gov.uk
